Description

For crops with a high water requirement, or during dry summers, mobile irrigation equipment is used. The SIKU-Fendt tractor with irrigation reel is the playroom implementation for this part of vegetable cultivation.

The distribution sprayer is attached to the reel for transport by road. In the field, the hose is unwound from the reel and connected to the sprayer, so that a large area can be supplied with water. When field irrigation is complete, the hose is rewound, and the sprayer is attached.
